ZEPPELINS MAKE ANOTHER RAID

DEGENERATE CAPTURED AFTER NIGHT SEARCH

Five Hundred Armed Citizens Joined
Police and Militia in Hunt for Man
Who Lured 12 Year Old Girl
Into the Woods.

(Special to The Herald)
Augusta, Me., April 16.—After an all night hunt by 500 infuriated citizens, police and militia, Julian Kittredge was captured at 7:30 o'clock this morning. He was accused by 12-year-old Doris Brown of luring her into the woods at Mount Pleasant. The capture and arrest was made by Deputy Marshal Sewall Glidden and Private Ralph Bryant, Company M, 3d Regiment, Maine National Guard. Bryant halted Kittredge after threatening to shoot him in his tracks if he attempted to escape. Kittredge was brought to this city where more than a thousand persons surrounded the jail but no violence was done the prisoner. Little Doris Brown was lured into the woods by Kittredge as she was returning from school Thursday afternoon. She was accompanied by Florence Lisiness when she entered the woods, but the latter little girl becoming frightened at the actions of Kittredge, broke away from him, and running to her home told her story, which aroused the entire city.
According to the story of the Lisiness girl it was just dusk when the trio stepped into the edge of the woods. No sooner had they gotten away from the road than the man seized both and attempted to drag them with him. The Lisiness girl was terror stricken at

Several English Towns Bombarded By German Airships Early This Morn- ing--Little Damage Done--Only One Person Injured

(Special to The Herald)
London, April 16.—For the second time within thirty hours German Zeppelin airships made a raid on England early this morning. Half a dozen towns were bombarded but dispatches from the towns attacked state that very little damage was done by missiles from the airships. Only one person, a woman, is known to have been hurt. She was struck by flying debris at her home in Lowestoft.
Three Zeppelins took part in this latest raid, one of them passing within ten miles of London. This is the nearest that a raiding airship has approached this city since the German airfleets became active.

London April 16.—Reports that German aeroplanes were bombarding towns in Kent reached here this afternoon, and were prominently displayed by some of the evening newspapers. The Echo printed a statement that the air craft were dropping bombs upon Sittingbourne and Faversham. The former town is 28 miles from London, while the latter is about 35 miles from the capital. Both are a few miles from the British naval base at Chatham.
It was later learned that a torpedo dropped several bombs upon Faversham, and then proceeded to Sittingbourne, where it dropped one bomb that fell in an orchard. No material damage was done at either town. Af-

DROWNED MAN IDENTIFIED

As John Curry of Roxbury, Mass., Whose Body Was Found in Piscataqua River.

After a lapse of two weeks, the body of the man found in the Piscataqua by Purser Earl Dearborn of the Atlantic Shore Line ferry, Alice Jeward, on the afternoon of Tuesday, March 30, has been identified as John Curry, aged 62 of Roxbury, Mass. He was unmarried.
The identification was made this week by his brother, Henry of that city.
The Atlantic Shore transfer ship was the silent witness that corroborated the story told by the unfortunate man's brother, who stated that John Curry left Roxbury at six o'clock, Wednesday evening, March 24th, to take the train leaving Boston at 7:30 and which arrives in Portsmouth a little after nine. Curry was bound for Kittery where he was to help load a lumber cargo. The transfer slip told the rest of the grim story, tracing the movements of the man from Portsmouth across the ferry, and remained in his pocket until six days later when the body was discovered.

(Special to The Herald)
Amsterdam, April 16.—Count Zeppelin has arrived at Cuxhaven and is in personal charge of the aerial operations against England. Advices received here today from Berlin state that there is great activity at Cuxhaven and Emden, two of Germany's chief flying bases, and there are indications that the German fleet is about to make a new sortie.

PARROT SCARES AWAY BURGLAR

Attempt to Enter Walden Residence on Lafayette Road.

Another attempt at break house-breaking was made again in the West End section on Thursday night at the residence of Richard I. Walden, 151 Lafayette road. The work was done between 8 and 11 o'clock while the family were away from the house.
The burglar planned on getting in a window in the rear of the house but after breaking the glass was frightened away by the squawking of a parrot which hung in a cage close to the window. The police are working on the case today, which is similar to the many other breaks that have been so frequent in that section of the city.

CHARGE FRAUDS OF ABOUT $1,000,000

President of Monaton Realty Company Charged With Conspiracy to Defraud Investors

New York April 15.—Pierre M. Looker, president of the Monaton Realty Company which had main offices in this city and branches in Hartford, Bridgeport, Providence, Philadelphia, Chicago and other places was yesterday placed on trial in the United States Court on an indictment charging him with conspiring to defraud investors by representing that the corporation was paying dividends as high as 10 per cent as the result of its dealings in apartment house properties in New York and Brooklyn. Through these representations the defendant is charged with perpetrating frauds aggregating about $1,000,000.

The indictment charges that after acquiring title to apartment houses in good neighborhoods by the payment of small sums and giving mortgages for the balance the company undertook to sell interest bearing bonds to the extent of $1,000,000 secured by the titles which it held on 37 properties in Brooklyn and 20 or more in Manhattan. The preferred stock it is alleged was distributed to promoters at $100 a share and the indictment charged that between 1907 and 1912 about $200,000 in dividends was allotted to those on "the inside." The Government contends these dividends were paid out of $350,000 collected from investors in the company's bonds and profit-sharing certificates.

(When the case was called it became known that M. McLaughlin a director in the Monaton Company who was jointly indicted with Pres. Looker had died last January.

The complaint which led the Federal authorities to take action against the company its president and director were made by Rev. L. C. Knuth of Dayton O.; Mrs. Franzetta P. Adams of Providence and other investors who failed to get promised dividends.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY OF CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY

Elaborate Celebration in Washington With Cardinal Gibbons and O'Connell as Speakers

Washington April 15.—The celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Catholic University of America was opened today with a solemn pontifical mass in St. Patrick's Church in the presence of one of the most distinguished Catholic congregations ever assembled in this country. The three American Cardinals eight Archbishops 30 bishops 30 monsignori eight heads of religious orders 60 representatives of colleges and universities more than 300 clergymen and hundreds of the most prominent Catholic laymen and women from all over the United States were present.

The officers of the pontifical mass were Cardinal Parley of New York celebrant; Very Rev. Thomas Finn of Rockford Ill and Rev. Joseph P. Smith of New York deacons of honor; Rev. M. J. Crane of Philadelphia dean of the mass; Rev. Thomas J. O'Brien of Whitestone N. J. subdeacon of the mass.

The sermon was preached by Cardinal Gibbons who said in part: "For the growth of the university we are indebted above all to the God of wisdom for whose glory the work was begun. To the great Pontiffs Leo XIII and Pius X and to their successor Pope Benedict XV we make public acknowledgment of our gratitude. To the Catholics of the United States we return our thanks for their generous support.

"The experience of these 25 years emphasizes the needs which the university aims to supply; the need of divine truth to complete our human knowledge of divine justice as the highest sanction of law of the spirit of Christ in our ministrations of mercy and love. There is no real liberty without law and there is no meaning or validity to law unless it be observed.

"The growth of democracy does not imply that each man shall become a law unto himself but that he shall feel in himself the obligation to obey. If the enacting power has been transferred from the will of the ruler to the will of the people the binding executive power has been laid with greater stress of responsibility than ever before upon the individual conscience.

"Unless men be taught that obedience is right and honorable and necessary alike for private interest and public weal legislation will avail but little the law-making power will become a mockery and the people themselves will complain that legislation has been carried to excess.

"The conscience has need of a higher sanction than any merely human sense of justice. To meet the requirements of our religious social and political situation is a duty that we owe to the church and to our country. To fulfill it we must combat our efforts and I rejoice that in the Catholic University a center of thought and action has been provided.

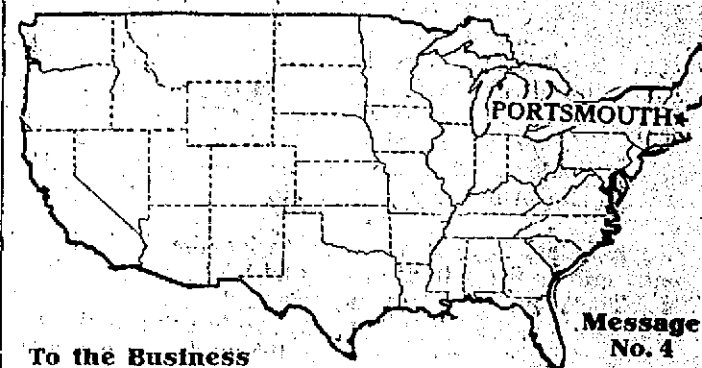

"The service was followed by a luncheon in the New Willard and at its close there was an academic procession to the New National Theatre for the academic exercises which were opened with an invocation by Cardinal Gibbons.

Bishop Shahan rector of the university followed with an introductory address and the following letter was read from Pope Benedict XV referring to the gift of $500 from the Knights of Columbus for the endowment of scholarships.

"To our beloved sons James Cardinal Gibbons Archbishop of Baltimore John Cardinal Parley Archbishop of New York; William Cardinal O'Connell Archbishop of Boston and to our venerable brethren the Archbishops of Hartford and Bishops of the United States of America; Benedict XV Pope.

To the Business Men of Portsmouth

A young doctor, making a start in a small town, decided that to be prosperous he must look prosperous. He bought a new buggy and two good horses. Although he had only a few patients he always kept on the jump, attending to his patients' smallest needs. People began to notice this young doctor driving about town and they called him because he looked busy and prosperous. He got his start—a start that led to a comfortable practice.

A town, like this doctor, must look prosperous to be prosperous. Clean streets, attractive store windows, well-painted buildings and dwellings give the prosperous air. Well-painted buildings are greatest of these.

No Excuse for Jingoism.

Calls for the enlargement of the United States army and a general strengthening of our preparedness for war continue to be heard. Military men are naturally in favor of this sort of thing at all times, the manufacturers of war munitions and supplies are always ready to welcome anything that will increase their business, and with conditions as they are in Europe it is not unnatural that many of the people of this country should be led to feel that safety lies only in arming to the teeth and being fully prepared to fight at the drop of the hat.

Nevertheless there is no reason why the United States should imitate the nations of the Old World in preparing for war. This country is large and powerful. It is at peace with all the world and is likely to remain so in spite of the whirlwind of war that is now sweeping the world. It needs to be reasonably protected, and it is. The raising of bugbears is poor business. It is utter folly for a nation with the history of the United States; its size, its policies, its isolation and its capacity to place an immense army of volunteers in the field on very short notice, to become excited at this time and fall to imitating the passions that have been plunged into war very largely through their preparedness for war.

The New York World very sensibly calls attention to the fact that the rebellion was put down by an army of volunteers whose "organization, training and conduct in the field were successful and satisfactory," and it adds that "for a nation which blue water and a modern navy protect from a too sudden blow, patriotism is still the trustworthy defense."

The United States is not in danger. It needs no great standing army. It is not seeking new territory or to extend its trade through the instrumentality of the sword. If the condition of the army needs attention at certain points it should receive it, but the idea of adopting Old World tactics and standing constantly ready to fight the world is preposterous and should not be entertained for a moment. This country has done well by giving its attention to business rather than to militarism, and it will do well to continue this sound and sensible policy.

Fight fans are complaining of the practice of using laurels won in the ring as a stepping stone to the stage, but this is a practice that is not confined to the prize ring. The modern stage invites those who have become notorious through any avenue, and cheapens itself accordingly, but for this the public is as much to blame as the managers. However, it is difficult to believe that boxing commissioners of any state are considering the making of rules that will compel fighters to stick to their trade instead of accepting promotion to the stage. Prize fighting is something that should be discouraged rather than encouraged.

A Georgia life-time prisoner who has served 26 years for murder was recently offered a pardon by the governor, but declined it. He says he is not guilty of the crime of which he was convicted, and that the only thing he will accept is vindication through a new trial. This is impossible and unless he changes his mind he must stay where he is. All will agree with the governor that this "is an amazing case."

A Chicago philanthropist who some time ago built in that city a hotel for the unemployed proposes to erect a similar institution in Boston at a cost of $100,000. These houses are not to be free, but will be open to men actually out of employment at a cost so moderate as to be practically within reach of all deserving men. Properly managed, such hotels should be the means of accomplishing much good.

New York is becoming more and more an all-night city. One all-night moving picture house has already been opened, and after June 1 there will be all-night railway service between the metropolis and numerous suburbs. There is little rest for the weary or anybody else in New York, and the tendency is to reduce rather than increase it.

"Demand grows for the retirement of Secretary of the Navy Daniels," says a prominent New England newspaper. At the time of the Spanish war the demand was "Alger must go," and it was kept up till he went. Must the ousting of a member of the president's cabinet be an accompaniment of every war?

Wait Mason, the "jingler," has evidently had his troubles with the magazine editors, whom he brands as "conceited, overbearing, shallow-pated frauds." And yet he manages to get along very well without their co-operation.

Let there be no hysteria over the fact that the traveling public pays the greater part of the wages of Pullman car porters. It is a self-assumed burden and therefore one of which the public has no right to complain.

"THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE"

In "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" which is adopted from the novel of the same name by John Fox Jr., Eugene Walter is said to have painted a wonderful June, the barefooted wondering eyed lovers heroine of the story of the play. The part of the half savage untutored child of the Cumberland mountains is naturally the big feature of the play, which comes to the Portsmouth Theatre, Tuesday evening, April 20.

In the play Mr. Walter has made primitive love the motive for a feudal war that rages between two warring mountain clans and the families of the Tollivers and the Fallins. June's love for Hale, the engineer, is made the cause of the killing of Dave Tolliver by Buck Fallin as well as the attempted murder of Hale by young Dave. The play has been given a gorgeous scenic setting a vivid dramatic visualization of the book. From beginning to end it is a story of elemental love, a story that is meant to be heart clutching in its intensity. It is the love of a mountain girl, educated in the way of society and civilization, for a man of the world, a love which June does not understand—a love which frightens her a little.

June's love for Hale is inspired from a companionship around the lonesome pine, spiritualized by the potent fancy that the spirit of her dead sister is talking to her in the trembling of the pine needles and the sighing of the wind through the branches. It develops into the final instincts of the yearning of soul for soul and it enlarges until it warms and beams upon all of the Tolliver kin and quite the feud that has been raging in the Cumberland mountains for a hundred years.

He later recovered and was taken to the army hospital at the post by the ambulance corps.

FACTS—NOT ARGUMENTS

"I am tired of listening to generalities and arguments. I want to draw my own conclusions." This was the statement of a large manufacturer who was considering his advertising problem. The facts were gathered. They embraced figures from all over the United States. And as a result of these facts the manufacturer decided that he would have to use newspapers if he wanted to sell his goods. Manufacturers anxious for the same facts can have them in confidence by addressing the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

DR. BANCROFT REINSTATED AS SUPERINTENDENT

Gov. Spaulding and Board of Control Took Action at Special Meeting on Thursday.

Dr. Charles P. Bancroft, superintendent of the New Hampshire State Hospital, who was deposed by Governor Pelker and the Democratic members of the board of control last December, was reappointed Thursday evening by Governor Spaulding and the board of control without debate, at a special meeting.

The action of the board in ousting Dr. Bancroft was made the subject of legislative inquiry which resulted in a verdict that all the charges against the doctor was without foundation.

The finding of the commission filed with the governor and council within a few days, entirely vindicated Dr. Bancroft of the charges filed against him and while mildly rebuking the majority members of the board of control for not paying more personal attention to the hospital, implied that the real cause of the trouble was the steward of the hospital who gave different versions of the same situation to Purchasing Agent Fowler and Dr. Bancroft which was the reason chiefly for the feeling entertained by each against the other.

The expense of the investigation was $4500 according to the statement of Chairman James E. French of the appropriations committee.

Dr. Bancroft and family are now in California visiting the exposition. He will be notified by telegraph of his appointment and will reassume his duties immediately on his return.

RAILROAD NOTES

The special train with one hundred or more Portsmouth folks who visited Dover on Thursday evening, arrived back in this city shortly after three o'clock this morning.

Trains on the Portland division of the Boston and Maine were run over the new packet arch of the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge for the first time on Thursday. The temporary bridge which has been in place during the repairs will be removed at once.

The dynamo connected with the depot and round house lighting system of the Boston and Maine which has been in the hands of the electrical department at Boston for repairs was put in place in the station baggage room today.

Beginning Monday all shops of the Reading system will be placed on a 50 hour time instead of 40. The increased working hours will affect several thousand men over the system, and about 1000 in Reading alone.

The strike that tied up all city lines and interurban service on the Auburn and Syracuse Electric railway system last Wednesday was called off on Monday following advice from officers of Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees in Syracuse that the big strike threatened on all up-state lines between Buffalo and Syracuse had been declared off. Cars are now running.

The bill to repeal the Pennsylvania extra crew law passed second reading in the house at Harrisburg, and will come up for final passage next Monday night.

TAKES A BRIDE IN CAMBRIDGE

Mason-Galeucia Nuptials Occurred on Wednesday.

A very pretty home wedding took place at Cambridge on Wednesday when Miss Minnie Galeucia of that city and Harry L. Mason, a former resident of Portsmouth, were united in wedlock at the bride's home in the presence of the immediate families. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. L. Doyle of Hamilton, Mass.

CURRENT OPINION

City Born Children More Healthy Than Country Bred.

Public health is purchasable. Within natural limitations any community can determine its own death rate.

The city of New York is a splendid illustration of this truth. A quarter century campaign for public health has cut nearly in half the death rate of the city. Twenty-five years ago the death rate was twenty-six per thousand. Now it is thirteen and one-third per thousand.

The handicaps of city life and overcrowding have been outweighed, and the crude death rate in the second largest city in the world has been reduced materially below that of the rural districts of the state.

A child born in New York city has a better chance than a child born in a country community.—By Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, Health Commissioner of the State of New York.

A. P. LEIGHTON AGAIN CANDIDATE IN PORTLAND

Has Been Mayor Twice; Seeks Office After Voluntary Retirement.

The name of Ex-Mayor Adam P. Leighton, of Portland, has been mentioned as a possible candidate again for that office at the next election to be held in December.

It is urged that after two terms,
Mr. Leighton voluntarily retired, and that on the perspective of the intervening years the good things done under his administration shone out prominently, and to his great personal advantage. In short, Mr. Leighton's friends believe that in most respects he was more suited against than sinning, and that the time is now ripe, not for a vindication of him, but rather a grateful recognition by his fellow republicans of the achievements of an administration of which he was the head.

Should the movement receive such a momentum as to finally put the ex-Mayor across at the next republican convention, it is thought and that too on the best of authority, that Mr.
Leighton will accept the proffered honor, and head the Republican ticket at the next city election.

Ex-Mayor Leighton is well known in this city, and his many friends wish him the best of success.

EX-SEN. ALDRICH DEAD IN N. Y.

Passes Away at His Home
From Apoplexy Today.

(Special to The Herald)

New York, April 15.—Ex-Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island died suddenly at his home here today, at the age of 74. Mr. Aldrich's death followed a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered yesterday afternoon, from which it was thought he was recovering. The apoplectic stroke was preceded by an attack of indigestion.

Mr. Aldrich had been in failing health for several years and had taken several ocean voyages in an effort to regain his health. When he returned from his last voyage it was supposed that he had been considerably benefited. The end came suddenly today at his home at 908 Fifth Avenue.

After retiring from the United States senate where he was one of the leading Republican figures for many years, Mr. Aldrich had passed most of his time in New York.

Nelson Winthrop Aldrich was one of the foremost students of financial and economic affairs that the United States has ever produced. During his long term in the service of the public he was identified with many of the important political issues, the chief of which were the tariff and monetary reform.

The ex-senator was born at Foster R. I., November 6, 1841. He was the father-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., his daughter Abby Green Aldrich having married the son of the standard oil king. He was the Republican lower leader in the senate and his word was law. He was very rich and maintained a residence in Providence
Jr. his daughter Abby Green Aldrich
a country estate at Warwick, R. I.

For extra good cooking always use Cottolene

For biscuits, pie-crust, cakes and doughnuts, and for frying, Cottolene is supreme, because it is the purest cooking fat and possesses important food values.

Cottolene

It is an exact combination of specially refined cottonseed oil, of a grade so high it is not listed on the market, with pure beef-stearine from selected leaf beef suet.
It is this precise combination which gives Cottolene its unexcelled cooking qualities. These are imitators, but there is no substitute for Cottolene.

For economy, as well as for good cooking, use Cottolene. You will require a third less of it than of any other shortening

RAILROAD BILL IS DEFEATED IN HOUSE

By a Vote of 161 to 128--Stated That the Judiciary Committee Will Introduce Another Bill Eliminating the Consolidation Features

Concord, N. H., April 15.—House Bill No. 494, entitled "An act to authorize the reorganization or consolidation of the railroad companies that constitute the Boston and Maine railroad system and with defeat into this afternoon by a vote of 161 to 128. Immediately following the defeat of the bill it was stated that on Tuesday next the Judiciary Committee would introduce a new bill embracing practically the same features without the consolidation clause. Representative Couch of Concord was the first to speak on the bill and he said the committee had prepared this bill so that if it should pass that it would be all right as to its draft although the majority of the members of the committee were not in favor of its passage.

The given history of the railroad situation in New Hampshire during the last few years and came down to the existing situation. He characterized the present bill as a single system bill to enable the Boston and Maine to consolidate with its leased lines. He said that during the past five six or seven years all the railroads in this country have become more or less demoralized because of the increased cost of operating expenses and the slow methods adopted by the public service commissions to grant them additional revenue and the result was demoralization. In addition he said the Boston and Maine had been under the influence of the New Haven road and that in itself was demoralizing. His influence had not been good and it had dropped the Boston and Maine into the pit. The milking of the Boston and Maine railroad had not as yet extended to the leased lines but the object sought in this bill is to reach the leased lines and pull them down from the high shelf they have occupied into the pit with the Boston and Maine. They seek to do this by consolidation.

Suppose you grant this and what do you get? You will receive preferred stock in the Boston and Maine system which recently increased its capitalization to the extent of $300,000,000 and which under the provisions of this bill will be granted authority to issue stock to the extent of $140,000,000 more. This is what you will get.

"It has been talked here before now that the property of the leased lines should not be taken to bolster up the Boston and Maine stock," said Mr. Couch. "It is not a fair statement to make as has been heard that the leased lines are wholly in favor of this bill."

I know of a president of one of the leased lines who does not favor it. It is going to be argued to you that you need not be afraid of consolidation as the New Haven or the Boston and Maine could come into New Hampshire under the general law and lease our lines. But remember they must first try out the interests in this state. This argument in favor of a general law falls as flat as a pancake in my opinion. Now I am done. I do not believe in consolidation at the present time under any such considerations as exist. Leave the leased lines alone. Give the Boston and Maine a chance to reorganize. I am against the consolidation. I do not believe in it."

Rep. Cator of Portsmouth the author of the minority report said the committee was not in accord on this bill. He did not think the report a fair one and said the chairman had experienced a very quick change of heart. He attacked the lawyers who were heard in opposition to this bill while the house was in recess yesterday and said that with them it was a question of money.

He understood that one of them while speaking for the minority interests in New Hampshire yesterday had some months ago favored the introduction of the Grand Trunk system into this state and had received a fee of $30,000 for his services. He said the house had humiliated itself by listening to the arguments of the speaker from Boston whom he declared to be entirely irresponsible and he said he could back up those statements. Why listen he said to such men as these in preference to General Eastman? General Eastman had told him that just as sure as no relief is granted by this legislature the Boston and Maine will go into the hands of a receiver before 1916. The speaker argued in favor of the passage of the bill and quoted from the message of Governor Spaulding which was delivered yesterday.

Rep. Brennan of Peterborough regretted that personalities had been injected into the discussion. He said he was not so fortunate as to have been in the employ of the Grand Trunk railroad but doubtless would have had he had the opportunity. He did not believe any member of the house would consent knowingly to a wrong act. He believed every man intended to do his full duty and to the best of his ability. The Judiciary committee is composed of fifteen members who have given this matter their earnest and consistent attention both day and night and it is for you gentlemen of the house to say whether they are better qualified than you are to judge of this situation. My belief is that a large majority of this committee have been in favor of the position which they now take all along. Their report is with you. It stands 14 to 1 against the bill and in favor of the recommendation that it is inexpedient to legislate. The committee has under consideration another bill which will be presented to this house if it is desired the only difference being that this bill which you have before you and the one which they have in reserve is that the latter preserves the identity of the leased lines. Had we such a public service commission in 1887 as we have today you would not have been able to rescue your New Hampshire railroads from the wreck as the commission of today stands for consolidation and you would have no opportunity to legislate as you are doing today. The situation as it strikes me is a remarkable one.

"I think it one of the most unreasonable requests that could be made to ask us to put the leased lines into the general pot. Gentlemen we are New Hampshire men and are interested in New Hampshire. We would be glad to help the Boston and Maine but not to the extent of sacrificing the interest New Hampshire has in her railroads. Let us not make the sacrifice by giving up all the interest which New Hampshire has in her leased lines. Do an act of this kind and you will go to your home and regret it."

Rep. Sanders of Jersey said: "Pass this bill and you will place the railroads of New Hampshire in the hands of the same men who have wrecked the Boston and Maine and the New Haven road. I have sympathy for the position which the Boston and Maine is in but I have only disgust for the men who have managed its affairs."

Rep. Wood of Portsmouth favored the passage of the bill and made an appeal for each member of the house to act on his own individual judgment

He said he would not deny to the leased lines of New Hampshire an opportunity which would prove a benefit to them.

Rep. Bell of Exeter believed in the bill and said that unless it was passed and relief granted the Boston and Maine would go into receivership not later than the first of September.

Rep. Connor of Manchester said: "Pass this bill and the Boston and Maine will have a few more bones to pick from the leased lines. I am here for the home folks and stand for them. We have the leased lines and they will take us as far as we want to go and I am satisfied. I would like to see the Boston and Maine go into the hands of a receiver but they don't dare to let them go into a receivership and we shall then have an investigation and find out who some of the niggers in the wood pile are. The bill smells bad. I don't like it and I hope it will be killed."

Rep. Callahan of Keene said it was not the people of New Hampshire who had put the Boston and Maine railroad into the condition in which it is today. He was not frightened by a threat of a receiver.

Rep. Preston of New Hampton said that the legislatures of 1887 and 189 were largely responsible for the troubles of the Boston and Maine railroad as they had placed the present burdens upon that corporation and he believed the present legislature should repay the debt by adopting relief legislation. He would like to have the new bill which had been mentioned by members of the Judiciary committee brought before the house before the present bill was disposed of.

Rep. Ahern of Concord endorsed the position taken by Chairman Niles of the Public Service Commission. He also emphasized the endorsement given the present bill by vote of the directors of the Concord and Montreal railroad. He said he was heartily in favor of the passage of the bill.

At the afternoon session Representative Jacobs of Lancaster spoke against the passage of the bill and Representative Lee of Concord and Duncan of Jaffrey in its favor while the last two speakers were talking the house got restless and Representative Wagner called for the previous question and the debate was brought to a close.

Thief is Frightened Away After He Had Cut Pane of Window Glass

Another attempt to break and enter was made on Thursday evening about 8.30 o'clock when an unknown man attempted to gain an entrance to the new home of letter carrier Ralph Bigger on South street. Mr. Bigger was home at the time and had retired for the night but the noise made by the fellow in attempting to raise the window awoke him and he opened his chamber window and shouted so lustily that the would-be intruder took to his heels. It was so dark that Mr.

Bigger was unable to obtain any description of the fellow.

The local police were notified but as they had no description of the party they could accomplish but little. The conductor of the Middle street car leaving Market Square at 8.35 o'clock informed the police that he saw a man hiding behind a tree near Mr. Bigger's residence when his car passed that point. An investigation showed that the would-be thief had cut a hole in the window pane in order to reach the latch.

WILBUR THEATRE, BOSTON, "A PAIR OF SIXES," 17th WEEK

New England playgoers in search of hearty laughter and bright entertainment are still flocking to the Wilbur Theatre, where "A Pair of Sixes," on Patriots' Day will begin the 17th week of an engagement which has broken all records for long runs in Boston. Although it would seem that every man, woman and child in Boston has already seen this wonderful farce, the attendance remains just as large as ever, and at every performance "A Pair of Sixes" sends its thrills of laughter across the footlights at an audience that fills every portion of the playhouse.

There must be some reason why a play can come to Boston in a season that has been characterized by near business and stay longer than any farce has ever been known to stay in the Hub City. For since this piece came to the Wilbur Theatre in December nearly one hundred shows have come to Boston and gone their way. Any one who has seen this farce can tell you the reason. It is the best, cleanest, most enjoyable and funniest farce that has ever been presented.

From the moment the curtain rises on the final line is spoken the audience is kept continually laughing and applauding and the funny situations follow so swift on each other's heels that it may be called one long laugh, lasting two hours and a half. And the company appearing in this piece contains sufficient comedy material to supply a half dozen farces with stars. The public evidently knows what it wants and "A Pair of Sixes" has struck the popular fancy with a Jess Willford punch.

Many men and women reach the prime of life, burdened with stomach trouble, headaches, constipation, nervousness, heart flutter, etc., and frequently the cause is the drug, caffeine, in the coffee they drink.

You can quickly tell if coffee is injuring your health by stopping it ten days and using

INSTANT POSTUM

This delicious, pure food-drink contains no caffeine nor any other harmful ingredient. It is wholesome and invigorating, with a snappy flavour very like that of the Old Gov't Javaz.

And Instant Postum is so easy to make. Put a level teaspoonful in a cup and add hot water—that's all.

The convenience of Instant Postum is seen at a glance. Sold in 30c and 50c tins. Some prefer Postum Cereal—the original form, which must be well boiled, 45c and 25c packages.

Grocers sell both kinds, the flavour is equally delicious and the cost per cup is about the same.

It does your heart good to see how easily and quickly any corn comes out when you put "GETS-IT" on! And then when you've gone along for years trying

Just try it, "GETS-IT" never fails. No pain, no trouble. Use it for any corn, callus, wart or bunion.

DAILY SPORT LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke)

Ty Cobb recently aimed a few broadsides at some of the ball players who jumped to the Feds and then jumped back to organized baseball.

"The Federal League can figure that it didn't lose much when it lost such fellows," said Cobb, naming five men who jumped their reserve clause or organized contracts and then jumped their ironclad Federal contracts.

"As I understand it, every one of those fellows were held to the organized clubs only by the reserve clause. The Federal League offered them better money and a consequent betterment of conditions. There was, in my mind, nothing wrong in their action in jumping to the Feds, but when they jumped back again they did something that shows they broke faith—that their word means nothing to them and that they do not care to live up to a contract.

"If I jumped to another League I would stay jumped. I have no sympathy for and no respect for men who break their written or their verbal promises. Those men who jumped to the Feds and jumped back again may be good ball players but they are the stripe of men that are unreliable and untrustworthy and with which the Feds very easily can do without."

"If organized baseball had treated the ball players in the way that the Federal League does there wouldn't have been any need for the Baseball Players Fraternity," said Ed Ruelbach.

"The commission granted the majority of the demands of the Fraternity because of fear of the Feds," he said. "They were certain that, unless they did concede the main parts of the Fraternity's demands that many of the players in the American and National Leagues would jump.

"The commission has tried to convince the public that it granted the demands of the players because it wanted to better the conditions of the players. That is bunk. The commission wouldn't do one thing to help the ball players until the Feds came along. Then it saw the club the players had and it caved in."

Ruelbach admitted that the concessions made in the winter of 1914 to the ball players by the National Commission was due largely to the activity of the Federal League in raiding the American and National Leagues.

He's now with the Newark Federals and until this season was one of the pitching stars of the National League with the Cubs and Dodgers.

"Why doesn't the Fraternity recognize the Federal League players?" was asked of Ruelbach, who served as director in and secretary of the Fraternity.

"There is no need for it," answered Ruelbach. "The players in the Federal League are treated like human beings. They are given a living wage. They aren't treated like serfs. And they aren't chained to a magazine for life after they once affix their names to a contract. The Fraternity was organized for the purpose of forcing a betterment in the condition of the ball player. The players in the Federal League are treated in an ideal way so the Fraternity cannot better their condition."

"THE LAW OF THE LAND"

Latest George Broadhurst Success Opens at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, Next Monday With two Holiday Performances

Coming to the Majestic Theatre on Monday, April 19th for a limited engagement will be that remarkable New York success "The Law of the Land," from the pen of that prolific writer of American dramas, George Broadhurst.

It is a matter of distinct satisfaction to be able to announce that Boston will be favored with the same original cast and production seen in the all season run at the 48th Street Theatre, New York. Featured in the cast is Julia Dean and associated with her in leading roles are George Lawwell, and Milton Sills.

Some of the greatest dramatic successes of the past decade have come from Mr. Broadhurst, among them being "Bought and Paid For," "Today," "Innocent," "The Man of the Hour," "The Wrong Mr. Wright," "What Happened To Jones," and "Who Smith Left Home." His latest big hit, "The Law of the Land," is a drama of the home involving marital relations which we all know exist, but have never before seen utilized for dramatic treatment on the stage. It is as well, distinctly a drama of action, with a plentiful number of unique comedy scenes interspersed.

IF YOU ARE A WORKING MAN

Do you know that the one amendment which passed in Wyoming at the last election was one to make provision for workmen's compensations? It was carried by a vote of 24,258 to 3,915, and because of this vote the Legislature, which has just adjourned, was able to pass the working men's compensation act. Do you realize that Wyoming, where this happened, was the first state to give women the vote? Do you know that six other suffrage states, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona and Kansas, have workmen's compensation laws? Women believe in justice for you. Do you believe in justice for women?

THE COLONIAL THEATRE OPENED THURSDAY

Initial Performance Well Attended and Presented in a Remarkably Smooth Manner.

The Colonial Theatre was opened to be put in place and temporary make the public Thursday evening. The trial had to be used. The scenic doors opened at 6.30 and by 7 o'clock the painter with the Hallowe'en Party act every seat was occupied with standing room at a premium. The large audience was favorably impressed with the appearance of the house and much favorable comment was made.

Among the invited guests of the management were Mayor Yeaton and family with members of the city government and their ladies. Many men prominent in the motion picture business, officials of the film companies and theatre managers from New York and Boston occupied reserved seats in the audience and boxes.

Considering all things, the opening performance went remarkably smooth. The managers, Messrs. Gray and McDonough were sorry that their scenery and drops didn't arrive in time

The show opened with an overture by the six piece orchestra and was well received. The show commenced within a few minutes of the scheduled time and consisted of vaudeville and photoplays. Fifteen reels of pictures were shown and the vaudeville consisted of two good double acts, a singing and talking act and a good comedy cycle number and a one act musical comedy number with nine performers. The comedy was clever and the musical numbers very good.

A good show, a pretty house, and a well satisfied audience marked the initial performance at the Colonial.

MEN'S GUILD WAS HOST TO GIRLS

Young Ladies Entertained at Chapel Thursday Evening.

The Young Men's Guild of the Middle Street Baptist church, entertained the Girls' Guild at the chapel on Thursday evening. There were about 30 young people present. The hall was ornamented by white pillars on both sides of the room. From the center electrolator to the various pillars were strung streamers of purple and white crepe paper. The center light was red surrounded by white lights, making a very pretty effect. The decorations were indeed beautiful.

Upon the arrival of the guests a general reception was held, followed by a grand march which was led by Lyman Macdonald and Miss Hazel Ketch. Miss Evelyn Badger presided at the piano.

During the evening various games were participated in, after which a short musical program was carried out as follows:

Vocal solo.....Nathan Andrews

Piano solo.....Driving Doodie

Vocal solo.....Stewart Humphreys

Partners were then chosen and the company adjourned to another room where refreshments of harlequin ice cream, assorted cake, fancy wafers and fruit punch were served.

A very enjoyable evening was passed by all present, and the time went only too quickly to suit the young folks. The girls were loud in their praise of the young men and declared them to be ideal entertainers and hosts.

Great credit is due the following officers of the Guild and the committees in charge of the affair: President, Stewart S. Humphreys; vice president, Emerson Locke; secretary, Roger Willey; treasurer, Rufus Pennington.

Entertainment committee: Rev. W. P. Stanley, S. S. Humphreys, and Emerson Locke. Decoration committee: Lyman Macdonald, Leon Roberts and Nathan Andrews. Refreshment committee: Leon Roberts, Carlton Badger and Harvard Young.
